

Pales Quaker Meeting House
A living testimony to Quakers
Y Pales Tŷ Cwrdd y Crynwyr
Tystiolaeth fyw i Grynwyr

Eco Engineering Day at the Pales

Thursday 4th April 2019

Hydrogen-fuelled car & Eco-friendly heating

We shall explore where science, engineering and sustainability meet.

Expert presentations followed by discussion, facilitated by -

(am) Victoria Griffiths of Riversimple on Llandrindod's hydrogen-fuelled battery-free electric car;

(pm) Dr Alan Owen and Tim Coleridge of CAT on eco-friendly (including heat-pump) domestic heating and insulation.

10.00 am for refreshments and a prompt 10.30 am start, the day will finish at 4.30 pm.

Bring food for a shared lunch, 12.30 - 1.30.

We suggest a voluntary donation of £15, to be paid on the day.

For more information and bookings -
www.thepales.org.uk

The Pales Historic Quaker Meeting House, c1717, is the oldest in continuous use in Wales and is of great emotional and spiritual significance to many both within and without the Quaker community. It is situated in a peaceful hillside setting in Powys near its border with Herefordshire.