Autumn Lecture at the Pales

Sunday 29th September 2019 2.00pm - 5.00pm

"More Than a Pile of Porridge - Learning How to Quake or Confessions of an L Plate Prison Chaplain"

by Ruth Moore-Williams

Ruth was a Quaker Prison Chaplain and gave a wonderful, animating talk at a gathering of Friends in Wales. "The lovely thing about Ruth's presentation of the very serious matter of being a prison chaplain is that she brings humour and a very lively, almost slapstick, style." (Peter Hussey.)

There is no charge for the day but donations towards the Pales running costs would be gratefully received.

Bring a picnic. Tea and coffee provided

The Pales Historic Quaker Meeting House, c1717, is the oldest in continuous use in Wales and is of great emotional and spiritual significance to many both within and without the Quaker community. It is situated in a peaceful hillside setting in Powys near its border with Herefordshire. The Pales, Llandegley. LD1 5UH
