

Pales Quaker Meeting House

A living testimony to Quakers

The Pales Quaker Meeting House, Llandegley, nr. Penybont. LD15UH

The Pales is approximately one mile off the A44, along single track roads, signposted with brown signs.

Approaching from the East (Kington) on the A44 the turning to the Pales is on your right, shortly after passing Llandegley Church on your left.

Approaching from the West (Rhayader) on the A44 the turning is on your left, one and a half miles after leaving Penybont.

Approaching from the North (Knighton) on the A488 there is a signposted turning on your left, approximately two miles after Llanfihangel Rhydithon. Please note that this road has two gates which must be opened and closed.

Parking is available at the Quarry, marked Parking on the map. This quarry is a Site of Special Scientific Interest so care should be taken when parking. Penybont Station is on the Heart of Wales line. If you are arriving by train please phone the Meeting House beforehand - collection from the station may be possible but would need to be arranged with plenty of advance notice. 01597 851543
